Dear Friends,

We are looking forward to our conversation with you about your recent missional experiment. It is always a delight to hear your stories and reflections. To maximize the learning, we record these discussions so we can share them with others who may be curious about your experiment. Others might be interested in hearing how you began or what you are learning and what that means for us as 'church'. Yet others may be nervous about beginning their own experiment. As they listen to you talk of your own fears and challenges through an excerpt from the interview, they gain the confidence to give something new a try. These become brave spaces with lots of room for missional imagination and exploration.

All those that are participating in the interview are required to give permission for the photo/video release below, so we can share your learnings with others in our synod and church. Thank you!
